The Clark County area is home to three of Wisconsin's Master Cheesemakers: Randy LaGrander of LaGrander's Hillside Dairy, David Lindgren of Lynn Dairy, and Vern Kind of Land O' Lakes.

North Hendren Co-op of Willard, Wis., has been in the business of cheesemaking for almost 80 years and boasts over 20 first and second place awards in statewide and national competitions for their Black River Blue and Gorgonzola cheeses.

LaGrander's, Stanley, Wis., Lynn Dairy, Granton, Wis., and Nasonville Dairy, Marshfield, Wis., are multi-generation, family-owned dairies which produce numerous award-winning cheeses.

Welcome Dairy, Inc. of Colby, Wis., manufactures pasteurized process cheese which has also won many top awards.

Wisconsin Organics, Thorp, Wis., is the Midwest's leading brand of organic dairy products offering a wide variety of milk, cheese and butter products that come from organic dairy farms.

Suttner's, Curtiss, Wis., offer several varieties of cheese and their fresh cheese curds.

Holland's Family Cheese, Thorp, Wis., is a family owned business offering 14 different varieties of Gouda with more to come.

Grassland Dairy Products, Greenwood, Wis., specializes in butter production and is the nation's oldest and largest privately-owned butter producer. Their butters have won the World Championship Cheese & Butter Contest and numerous other awards throughout their history.

Contact any of these businesses to find out more about their products and purchasing information. Several offer e-mail orders and tours. Stop at the retail shops and enjoy Clark County's great cheeses, cheese curds, wine, ice cream, milk, meat, and other locally produced products.
